Full job description

Your new company

Have you ever thought about getting into FIFO Bus Driving? Well now is your chance. Due to continued growth in the industry, there are plenty of casual bus driver positions available across Western Australia. Whether you are new to FIFO and are looking for something different or if you previously worked on the mines and are looking to come back, this is for YOU!

Your new role

You will be driving a 52-seater passenger bus around remote areas in Western Australia. You must be comfortable to undertake other duties, for instance utility work, while on site. FIFO will include both day and night shifts.

What you'll need to succeed

Bus Drivers must have the following:

- A current, HR licence with PTD endorsement
- Previous Bus driving experience, 52-seater or above (mine sites preferably)
- Current First Aid and CPR certificate (or be willing to obtain)
- Have or be willing to obtain current
- National Police Clearance; dated within the last 6 months
- Willing to do utility work during down period on site (to maximize your hours)
- Must be willing to obtain Inductions

What you'll get in return
